REQUIRED TEXTS:
- Additional articles available electronically on Blackboard

COURSE DESCRIPTION: This course investigates a variety of expressive forms practiced by different groups of people living in Sub-Saharan Africa. We will examine the folklore (e.g. oral narratives, songs, paintings, and dance) of specific groups to explore issues of aesthetics, identity, politics, economics, gender, class, and globalization. Audio-visual materials—video footage, documentary films, audio recordings, and photographs—will be used to augment students’ understanding and engagement with life across the continent and with the specific materials studied.

COURSE OBJECTIVES:
- Familiarize students with the folklore of a wide variety of communities living in African contexts and abroad
- Engage students with ways in which culture intersects with critical social and political issues in African contexts
- Introduce students to important scholars, scholarship, and theoretical perspectives in the field of African folklore
- Develop vocabulary relevant to the study of folklore and African Studies
- Strengthen oral and written communication skills
- Augment critical thinking skills

RESPECT: It is essential that we work together to create a classroom environment where everyone feels free to express their opinions while simultaneously respecting the plurality of experiences and perspectives of others.

DISABILITY: I will do everything possible to assist those with special needs. Please meet with me in the first week of class to discuss how I can accommodate you.

FLR 416 (UNDERGRADUATE) GRADING AND COURSE REQUIREMENTS
- Country Overview and Proposal for Journal (5% of final grade, DUE April 8): 3-page paper that provides a brief overview of the geography, history, political system, and cultural make-up of the country students have selected for their Folklore in Africa Journal project as well as a brief explanation of the types of folklore they will profile in their journals (see next assignment). Guidelines will be distributed in class.
- Folklore in Africa Journal (25% of final grade, DUE May 27): Student will select an African country to research this term. Over the course of the term, students will research six examples of folklore (e.g. folk tales, jokes, proverbs, music or dance performances, games, festivals, holiday celebrations, genre painting, and so on) from that country. These examples can be found in books, journal articles, documentary films, audio recordings, and online sources. For each example, students are required to write a journal entry in which they describe the folklore, explain who participates in this type of folklore (be specific regarding nationality, ethnicity, age, gender, etc.), and the context in which it occurs. They will then use one concept from class to analyze the folklore. Guidelines to be distributed in class.
- Midterm (30% of final grade, MAY 4): A short answer and essay exam covering readings and class discussions from the beginning of the term through Week 5.
- Final Exam (40% of final grade, JUNE 10, 8:00 AM in 111 LIL): A short answer and essay exam covering readings and class discussions from the beginning of the term through Week 10. Material from Week 6-10 will be emphasized.
FLR 516 (GRADUATE) GRADING AND COURSE REQUIREMENTS:

- Additional class meetings: In addition to class meetings, graduate students will meet as a group with the instructor at least three times during the term. Meeting times will be scheduled to accommodate everyone’s schedules.

- Additional Readings: In addition to the required readings for the course, graduate students will select 5 additional readings from a bibliography provided by the instructor. These readings will be discussed during the graduate student meetings.

- Lead class (10% of final grade). Each graduate student will lead one class period. S/he will address that day’s topics and readings through any combination of lecture, discussion, and small group discussion. You are encouraged to bring relevant examples of folklore (material objects, records, photographs, video examples, etc.) to illustrate ideas and stimulate discussion.

- Theoretical paper (30% of final grade, DUE May 4): Select one or more theorists central to one (or more) of our course readings this term. Read that theorist or group of theorists. Write a 6-8 page paper in which you explain the theoretical approach, critically consider how the author(s) applied the theorist(s) to her/his work, and how you might apply this theoretical perspective to your own work.

- Term paper 15-20 pages (60% of final grade, DUE, June 7 by 5:00 in my office): a theoretically informed paper about some aspect of folklore on the African continent. Students interested in folklore in communities of the African Diaspora should meet with me to determine an appropriate topic.

ATTENDANCE

- Class periods are used for discussions, lectures, small group assignments, writings, and other activities. Attendance is therefore mandatory and fundamental to your success in this course.

- If you have to miss class, you are responsible for obtaining notes and materials. If your absence is excusable, you may meet with me (either during office hours or a scheduled appointment) to review missed materials.

- Excusable circumstances include: a death in the family, serious illness, ill children, observance of a religious holiday, and other university recognized conflicts. Be prepared to provide documentation.

- If excusable circumstances prevent your attendance at a test or your turning in an assignment on time, inform your professor before or within 24 hours after the quiz or due date via e-mail, telephone, or a dated note in the professor's mailbox (this requirement will be lifted in extreme circumstances). STUDENTS CANNOT MAKE-UP TESTS DUE TO UNEXCUSED ABSENCES. LATE PAPERS (not due to excusable circumstances) WILL DROP ONE LETTER GRADE EACH DAY THEY ARE LATE.
