Course Description
“After all, the boundaries between fiction and non-fiction, between literature and non-literature and so forth are not laid up in heaven.” Russian critic Mikhail Bakhtin's apt quote captures this course's aim to explore the complex and shifting interconnections between “folklore” (traditional cultural practices including the verbal arts, social folk customs and material culture) and “literature” and other “arts.” We will examine storytelling in all its permutations across the borders of the oral, the written, and the visual within cultural frameworks. We will also evaluate various writers’ and artists’ appropriations of folk traditions as well as folk artists’ appropriations of literary material. The discussion will unfold in the broader context of questions about the nature of "cultural texts" and "cultural readings" and their meanings in the academy and in everyday life. We will explore folkloric, literary and artistic works as well as secondary literary and cultural criticism and ethnographic materials.

Contract between Instructor and Students
The instructor asks students to come to class, read and discuss readings, write term projects without plagiarizing, and have fun in the process. In turn, the instructor agrees to present concepts, examples and term project guidelines as clearly as possible, to give fair exams, and to return graded student exams and projects in a timely manner (usually one week later for exams, and no more than two weeks later for term projects).

Attendance
The English Department attendance policy is as follows:
Enrolled students in any English classes must attend one of the first two class sessions; otherwise, they may be required to drop the class. The instructor will not add students to the class after the third class session. In addition, the instructor counts attendance as part of the class participation grade based on % of classes attended. Students are allowed up to 2 excused absences that require advance notice to instructor; 3 or more unexcused absences, however, will lose attendance points and may constitute withdrawal.

Late Assignments
Students may ask for extension of assignments #1 & #2 due up to a two-day grace period with no loss of grade; after that time, one-half grade mark down per day late.

Paper Format
Reports should be typed, double-spaced, one-inch margins, no larger than 12 pt. type, no binders. (Material in appendices need not follow this format.)

Paper Revision
To be discussed.

Plagiarism
The College of Liberal Arts & Sciences Policy on Plagiarism states:
The principle of honesty is recognized as fundamental to a scholarly community. Students are expected to honor this principle and instructors are expected to take appropriate action when instances of academic dishonesty are discovered. An instructor, on discovering such an instance, may give a failing grade on the assignment or for the course. The instructor has the responsibility of notifying the student of the alleged violation and the action being taken. Both the student and the instructor are entitled to academic due process in all such cases. Acts of dishonesty may lead to suspension or exclusion.
The instructor’s policy, on a case-by-case basis, follows the English Department’s guidelines based on college and university guidelines.

Exam Make-ups
Considered if student arranges with instructor before exam.

Incompletes (REVISED UNIVERSITY POLICY)
The mark of “I” (Incomplete) is given to either an undergraduate or a graduate student when he/she has not completed all of the course work as required for the term and when there is, in the judgment of the instructor, a reasonable probability that the student can complete the course successfully without again attending regular class sessions. The student should be passing at the time the grade of “I” is given. A written contract specifying the work to be completed should be signed by the student and instructor and filed with the English Department.
Students receiving incompletes must finish their assignments by the end of a year or the grade will be replaced by an “F.” The University will not allow any extensions past the year’s deadline.

Withdrawals (REVISED UNIVERSITY POLICY)
The grade of “WN” replaces the “X” grade and applies to any student who has never attended class, or did not complete any assignments, or did not participate in credit-earning activities by the withdrawal date. If a student decides not to go to class after having received a grade for any component of a course, these grades will be issued only as follows: “WP” (Withdrawal with a passing grade earned to date) or “WF” (Withdrawal with a failing grade earned to date).

Drops and Adds Same as University Policy
