Syllabus
English 1700/Anthro 1150: Introduction to Folklore Genres
Section 2
Fall 2009
MWF 8 A.M.- 8:50 A.M. • 113 Crowder Hall

Instructor: Claire Schmidt
Office: 1 Tate Hall (all the way to the back and to the right)
Office hours: Wednesdays 10-12 or by appointment
E-mail: schmidtcla@mizzou.edu

Required Texts:
Brunvand, Jan. Study of American Folklore
Hopkinson, Nalo. Midnight Robber
Mirvis, Tova. The Ladies Auxiliary

Course Goals:
The goals of this course are to a) give you a working knowledge of the genres of folklore; b) familiarize you with key terms and concepts of folklore studies; c) explore issues of race, class, power and politics in the performance and study of folklore, and d) engage critical and analytical skills to develop an active understanding of your own folklore as well as the folklore of other groups.

Course Requirements:
You will write three short (3-page) analytical papers that each include a folklore collection component and sit a midterm exam and a final exam. You will be asked to complete in-class assignments and other group work, so attendance will, by default, play a large part in your grade. You are expected to participate in in-class discussion. You will also be expected to participate in the exchange of food traditions (more on this later), though your food contribution itself will not be graded.

Attendance: You are required to come to class. While I understand that emergencies do happen, you need to attend regularly in order to succeed in English 1700. Therefore, if you have 4 or more absences, your grade will drop by half a grade for each unexcused absence, and after 6 unexcused absences you may be dropped from the class. An unexcused absence means an absence without a doctor’s note, or other documentation.

Late Work: Late assignments will be docked one full letter grade for each day they are late.

Disabilities: if you need accommodations because of a disability, if you have emergency medical information to share with me, or if you need special arrangements in case the building must be evacuated, please inform me immediately. Please see me privately after class, or at my office.
To request academic accommodations (for example, a notetaker), students must also register with the Office of Disability Services, (http://disabilityservices.missouri.edu), S5 Memorial Union, 882-4696. It is the campus office responsible for reviewing documentation provided by students requesting academic accommodations, and for accommodations planning in cooperation with students and instructors, as needed and consistent with course requirements. For other MU resources for students with disabilities, click on "Disability Resources" on the MU homepage.

Plagiarism: University of Missouri Policy on Academic Dishonesty: Academic integrity is fundamental to the activities and principles of a university. All members of the academic community must be confident that each person's work has been responsibly and honorably acquired, developed, and presented. Any effort to gain an advantage not given to all students is dishonest whether or not the effort is successful. The academic community regards breaches of the academic integrity rules as extremely serious matters. Sanctions for such a breach may include academic sanctions from the instructor, including failing the course for any violation, to disciplinary sanctions ranging from probation to expulsion. When in doubt about plagiarism, paraphrasing, quoting, collaboration, or any other form of cheating, consult the course instructor.

Plagiarism, regardless of intent, will result in grade penalties. In addition, I will report any plagiarism to the Provost’s office. Though we will discuss plagiarism in this class it is your responsibility to familiarize yourself with the University’s plagiarism policies.

Please note: cell phones, blackberries, laptops and other PDA devices are prohibited from use in the classroom. You may be asked to leave if you ignore this policy.
