

The Northwest Indiana COINCIDENT INDEX

September 2016 Release

In September the Northwest Indiana Coincident Index remained unchanged for the second month in a row at 143.1. While regional employment continues to reverse its decline, up a total of 8,100 jobs (+3%) since July this was offset by a 7% decline in Indiana steel production. The forecast for economic growth over the next six months remains at about 1%.

The Northwest Indiana Coincident Index measures the current pulse of the economy in Northwest Indiana. The current value of the Index and a six-month forecast is released every month.
