

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Folklore Historian in association with the history section of the American Folklore Society announces the establishment of the endowed Richard Reuss Prize for students of Folklore and History. The prize honors Richard Reuss (1940-1986), founding editor of The Folklore Historian and a leading chronicler of folklore studies. The prize of 100 dollars will be awarded to a student delivering a paper at the annual meeting of the American Folklore Society on a subject dealing with the history of folklore studies. The winner of the prize will have his or her paper submitted for publication in The Folklore Historian. Submit papers before June 1, 1988, to Simon J. Bronner, American Studies Program, The Pennsylvania State University at Harrisburg, PA 17057. For information on contributing to the Reuss Prize Fund, write W.K. McNeil, Treasurer, Folklore Historian, Ozark Folk Center, Mountain View, AR 72560.
