

CONTRIBUTORS

Regina Bendix is a former editor of Forum and has recently finished her dissertation on "Playing William Tell: Lay Actors and their Associations in Two Swiss Communities."

Chad Berry is a student at the Graduate Program in Folk Studies at Western Kentucky University. He is a corresponding editor for Forum.

Timothy Cochrane has recently finished his dissertation at the Indiana Folklore Institute on "A Folk Biography of an United States Forest Service Ranger, Westerner, and Artist."

Tekla Dömötör is a Professor Emeritus at the Chair of Folklore, Budapest University.

Timothy H. Evans is a Ph.D. candidate in the Folklore Institute, Indiana University.

Gregory Hansen has a Masters degree in Folk Studies from Western Kentucky University and is working as a folklorist at the Danish Immigrant Museum in Elk Horn, Iowa.

Gail Matthews is a Ph.D. candidate in the Folklore Institute, Indiana University.

Martha Norkunas is a Ph.D. candidate in the Folklore Institute, Indiana University.

Peter M. Rojcewicz is an Assistant Professor of Humanities and Folklore at The Julliard School in New York City.

Guntis Šmidchens is a graduate student in the Folklore Institute, Indiana University. He is currently completing his Masters Thesis on the life stories of Latvian-Americans.

Mary Beth Stein is a Ph.D. candidate in the Folklore institute, Indiana University. She is presently in Berlin conducting research for her dissertation.

Margaret Steiner is a graduate student in the Folklore Institute, Indiana University.

Thomas Walker is a Ph.D. candidate in the Folklore Institute, Indiana University.

Robert E. Walls completed his M.A. degree in Folklore in 1987 and is currently working toward a Ph.D. in the Folklore Institute, Indiana University.

John B. Wolford is a Ph.D. candidate in the Folklore Institute, Indiana University.