If you're interested in moving to OJS 3, what could your publishing program be doing right now that to prepare for a migration (or new endeavor!)?

Try to write out 2-3 specific, tangible items.

Goals

- Share three migration case studies
- Identify and discuss “pain points”
- Start to develop a community that shares outreach materials, bugs, local feedback, etc.
 - We want your input on this!

Goals:

- Move everything!
- Minimize interruption
- Communicate frequently with editors
- Complete migration by Jan. 1, 2018
- Match design and functionality best we can

LIBRARIES

- A vertical timeline consisting of a black line with circular markers at each step, ending in a downward-pointing arrow.
- Early October: Move backfiles of small journals to test sites..
 - End of October: All currently published articles will be added to the OJS3 journal test sites.
 - Early November: Check that all article metadata is correct in OJS..
 - End of November: Create migration plans for any manuscripts that are still in the system and not yet published.
 - Beginning of December: Meet and train editors.
 - Mid December: Redirect URLs--new platform launches!
 - End of December: bepress goes dark.

Challenges:

- Customer service during construction
- Downstream communication
- Growing community support
- User data (OJS) & “live manuscripts” (bepress)

OJS 2 → OJS 3 (for multi-site instances)

IUPUI

- 2 FTE
- Part of 1 developer
- Launched in January 2018

IUB

- 3 FTE
- Part of 1 developer
- Launched in Spring 2018

OJS 2 → OJS 3 Takeaways

- Use the migration as an opportunity to renew outreach and update policies
- Don't front load all of your training time/energy: editors need just as much (if not more!) support after migration
- If you can upgrade between issue production cycles, that is ideal

Open Access Journals at IUPUI Search

Open Access Journals at IUPUI is a service provided by IUPUI University Library intended to support faculty, staff, students, and affiliated partners in producing their own open access scholarly journals. See a complete list of our journals below. This service runs on the Open Journal Systems (OJS), a widely-used platform for open access publishing.

For more information on this service, please see the Open Access Journal Publishing Service page.

For documentation on how to use OJS, please see this Journal Editor Manual.

Outreach Showcase

Either party can terminate this agreement with at least 90 days' notice. In the event of termination of the hosting relationship, Indiana University will cooperate fully and use all reasonable efforts to provide a smooth transition of all necessary components of the archived content to another hosting service provider designated by Publishing Partner.

If Journal appears to be abandoned (i.e. no new issues for a period of two years and/or Publishing Partner cannot be reached), Indiana University reserves the right terminate its services to Publishing Partner with at least 90 days' notice.

Regardless of the form of termination, Indiana University reserves the right to make the Publishing Partner's content accrued during the time of this agreement available worldwide in perpetuity.

Platform Migration Update

Week of October 30

Data Import Completed

This week Public Knowledge Project (creator of OJS), completed building an import tool that took all publication data from bepress Digital Commons and imported it into OJS. Beginning Wednesday, members of the Publishing Team began reviewing the metadata for quality and completion. All imported data remains behind a login, and current journals are still up and functioning.

Training Coming Soon!

In preparation for the new platform, Publishing Services will release The Editors' Handbook. This site will include documentation, videos, and helpful resources frequently requested by editors of University of Minnesota Libraries Publishing works.

The Editors' Handbook will be released in its entirety after a short break. However, videos and documentation related to OJS3 will be made available to all editors in the next three weeks.

Additionally, members of the Publishing Team will be in the next week to arrange meetings with editorial teams. During these meetings we will walk through your publication on the new platform and answer any questions you may have.

We anticipate that these meetings will take place from the end of November through the end of December. We know that this is a busy time of year for all with instruction and research duties. Our goal is to be flexible and supportive as possible.

Please don't hesitate to contact us with any questions or comments. You can reach the University of Minnesota Libraries Publishing at libpubserv@twinstate.edu.
