

AMO INTERNS RETURN

Brittany Golden (right)

The Archives & Museum of Optometry welcomes back our University of Missouri-St. Louis interns, Sophie Grus and Brittany Golden, for their second and final year working with Optometry Cares. In 2013, the AMO became a designated site for the UMSL program which awards graduates with a Master of Arts in History with a concentration in Museum Studies. Since starting in September of 2016, Sophie and Brittany have catalogued more than 10,000 photographs and inventoried more than 1,500 objects in the repository. Read about their conservation work with our panoramic photographs in this issue.

ARCHIVES MOVE: THE AOA RECORDS RETURN TO AOA HQ

House of Delegates Proceedings 1898-2012 Staged for Moving from Off-Site Storage

This September we recommence our survey and move of the Archives & Museum of Optometry collections back to the AOA Headquarters in St. Louis. Boxes of AOA records will be moved back to the Archives in batches so that we can consolidate the holdings into new housing. We anticipate this work will go on throughout the fall and winter of 2017-2018. Reference services and research will be suspended or restricted until the move is complete.

Did you miss us at Optometry's Meeting® in Washington, D.C.? The OHS Annual Business Meeting was well attended on Thursday, June 22, 2017 at the Washington Marriott Marquis. After the meeting, attendees were invited to listen to an interview with Dr. David Ferris by a New England College of Optometry Student. If you would like to hear the interview, visit the OHS page on the Optometry Cares webpage (www.aoafoundation.org/ohs) and find the link to our StoryCorps.me account. Dr. Ferris' interview is listed under our "favorites."

OHS ADVISORY COMMITTEE ELECTIONS

Dr. Bill Sharpton

The OHS is now accepting nominations for the 2018 Advisory Committee. To submit a nomination form, visit www.aoafoundation.org/ohs/. All nominations must be submitted by 5:00 p.m. on Thursday, November 30, 2017. If you have any questions, email us at amo@aoa.org.

In December 2017, Dr. Bill Sharpton will step down from the committee after serving a four-year term. We would like to thank him for his service to the OHS and for his work on increasing student membership.
