

Wives of Indiana Governors

Margaret Moore Post, award-winning reporter for the Indianapolis News, has been retained by the Indiana Historical Society to write a history of the wives of Indiana governors. The project is in cooperation with the Auxiliary to the Indiana Medical Association.

Mrs. Post already has done extensive research for the book in the Indiana State Library, in many libraries throughout the state, and in interviews and correspondence across the nation.

Because so many valuable records of these women are in family scrapbooks, letters, newspaper clippings, and picture files, Mrs. Post is seeking information from families, friends, and descendants. Her address is: 2805 Barbary Lane, Apt. E., Indianapolis, Ind. 46205.
