

History of Indiana in World War II

Indiana War History Commission

The first volume of Indiana in World War II will consist of a series of Honor Rolls for each county in Indiana. The booklets will contain the names of all Hoosiers in the military forces whose deaths occurred between November 18, 1940, and January 31, 1946. There will be a brief paragraph of information of the deceased, including names of parents or next-of-kin, time and place of birth, residence, military history, decorations, place and circumstances of death, and place of burial for each individual so far as it could be obtained. Since the booklets will vary in size, the price will range from twenty-five cents upwards. To date two Honor Rolls have been published—Gold Star Honor Roll, Adams County, thirty cents; and Gold Star Honor Roll, Whitley County, twenty-five cents.

Letters from Fighting Hoosiers, the second volume of Indiana in World War II, which contains 405 pages and sells for five dollars, has just been published. The letters reproduced in this work "attempt to convey how the war looked and sounded, how it smelled and felt, to a representative number of Hoosiers." A review of the book will appear in the Indiana Magazine of History in the near future.
