

Indiana History Conference

The thirty-third annual meeting of the Conference will be held on December 7 and 8, 1951, in Indianapolis. A varied program has been arranged.

Friday afternoon, December 7, there will be a meeting of the Indiana War History Commission for members only. A Folklore session, and a business meeting of the Whitewater Canal Association of Indiana have also been scheduled at the same time.

Thomas P. Martin of Indiana University has arranged a session on economic and business history for Friday evening.

The usual college history teachers breakfast will be held on Saturday morning, December 8, at 8:15 at the Warren Hotel. Holman Hamilton will give a sketch of Claude Bowers.

At ten o'clock on Saturday morning there will be two sessions. For the genealogy group Roy M. Robbins of Butler University will read a paper on "Immigration Routes to Indiana."

The Indiana History Teachers Association also meeting at that hour will hear a paper on the "Four Presidents with Hoosier Influence—William Henry Harrison, Benjamin Harrison, Abraham Lincoln and Zachary Taylor," by Holman Hamilton. This will be followed by a panel discussion on the revision of the requirements for social studies teachers.

At the Indiana Historical Society annual luncheon R. Carlyle Buley, Pulitzer prize-winner, will speak on "History and Historians of the Middle West."

Paul A. Wallace, author of Conrad Weiser and editor of Pennsylvania Magazine, will speak on the Moravian Records at the archaeology session Saturday afternoon.

On Saturday evening the annual dinner of the Society of Indiana Pioneers will serve as the closing event of the 1951 Indiana History Conference with Tom Wallace, editor emeritus of the Louisville Times, as the speaker.
