Bean Blossom or Georgetown Cemetery

*Nova May Mertens

George Grove founded the village of Georgetown in Brown County which took its title from his given name. As the settlement increased in size, a request was made for a post office which was not granted because there was another town by that name in Floyd County. Consequently, a post village was established and named for the creek in that region, Bean Blossom, five miles northwest from Nashville. For years this post office has not functioned. Both towns appeared on the early maps, but only Bean Blossom appears on the more recent maps.

While it was not possible to locate any records about the cemetery plot, some of the older people living in that region claim that Thomas Waltman of Maryland who migrated to Brown County at an early date donated the ground for the Presbyterian Church and cemetery at Georgetown.
