Honey Creek Monthly Meeting of Friends

*Willard G. Heiss

It seems fitting in this centennial year of the Western Yearly Meeting of the Society of Friends that some account be given of one of its earliest monthly meetings. The oldest monthly meeting within the boundaries of Western Yearly Meeting is Lick Creek in Orange County, established in 1813; the second is Blue River in Washington County, established in 1815. The third oldest monthly meeting was Honey Creek in Vigo County, which was set off from Lick Creek Monthly Meeting and established September 9, 1820. At this time Honey Creek included all Friends that lived in central and western Indiana; as other monthly meetings were set up, the boundaries of Honey Creek were narrowed to western Indiana and eastern Illinois. On February 14, 1829, the meeting was laid down and the membership attached to Bloomfield Monthly Meeting. The reason for its discontinuance is not known; it has been stated that it was due to the Hicksite controversy, but there is no evidence of this in the minutes.

At the time of the opening of the meeting in Vigo County, two settlements are mentioned: "Honey Creek on the Wabash" and "the settlement on the west side of the Wabash," which was soon established as Union preparative meeting. Meetings set up under Honey Creek were as follows:

Turmins Creek meeting, indulged 1822; preparative 1826 and name changed to Fairland meeting. Located in Sullivan County.

Spring Creek meeting, indulged 1822. Location unknown.

Vermillion meeting, preparative and worship 1823; set off as a monthly meeting 1826. Located in Vermilion County, Illinois.

* Willard G. Heiss is an Indianapolis Quaker who has long been interested in the history of his church and the preservation of its records. This item has been edited by Dorothy Riker of the Indiana Historical Bureau.

Leatherwood meeting, indulged 1826. Location unknown.

Elevatis meeting, preparative and worship 1826; set off as a monthly meeting 1827 and name changed to Bloomfield. Located in Parke County.

The exact location of the Honey Creek Meetinghouse is not known to this writer. Evan Hadley writes of it as being "on the Wabash south of Terre Haute." It was not until April, 1822, that trustees were appointed to hold title to the property. They were William Durham and Moses Hoggatt. Schools were conducted by the Honey Creek and Turmins Creek meetings as early as 1824.

The following records were compiled from a photostat of the Men's Minutes of the Honey Creek Monthly Meeting, September 9, 1820 to May 14, 1825, in the Genealogy Division, Indiana State Library; from the Women's Minutes, October 8, 1825 to February 14, 1829; and from loose pages containing marriage records and removals located at the meetinghouse of the Western Yearly Meeting at Plainfield, Indiana. The abbreviations are those commonly used in transcribing Quaker records.
