

Meet the New(ish) Librarians

InULA is an organization focused on the librarian not the library, the person not the job. In the interest of getting to know each other better as people, InULA Notes imposed on several new(ish) librarians to share some of their personal history and interests. Read on to learn about Shannon Johnson (IPFW), Kate More (IUS), and Summer Tritt (IPFW).

Shannon Johnson, Reference & Information Services Librarian, IPFW

Where did you go to library school? IUPUI

What are you reading? What is at home by your bedside or comfy chair? Mercedes Lackey's Elemental Master's series, specifically the last, Reserved for the Cat. Knitting, a jigsaw puzzle, and a couple Star Trek guides

Is there any professional literature that has recently caught your interest? If it counts, there's been some really lively discussions on the chemlit listserv that's been holding my attention for a while, questions about electronic vs print, individual vs. aggregator subscriptions....

What music are you listening to? Folk Alley webstream out of Kent State

What is the last movie you saw? Was it in a theater or on DVD? Avatar in the theatre and Dune on DVD

Hobbies? Obsessions? Interests? Dangerous question. I dabble and have very wide interests. I sew, knit, spin yarn, read, garden, bake, do puzzles and home repairs, work with the Girl Scouts...and write fanfiction. Way too much fan fiction...

Kate More, Coordinator of Electronic Resources, IUS

Where did you go to library school? Indiana University, Bloomington

What are you reading? What is at home by your bedside or comfy chair? Night Watch by Sergei Lukyanenko & The Picture of Dorian Gray by Oscar Wilde

Is there any professional literature that has recently caught your interest? I'm currently looking into business & economics literature on pricing models and transparency

What website or listserv have you found most useful recently? I'm constantly using google docs, as I'm always changing computers, from my office to the reference desk, to my house. With google docs, I don't have to worry about having 17 copies of the same thing, each with its own additions and subtractions, which is a definite bonus...

What music are you listening to? DeVotchka's How It Ends

What is the last movie you saw? Was it in a theater or on DVD? Zombieland at home. Even though it's funny, I still had nightmares

Hobbies? Obsessions? Interests? Knitting, sewing, traveling, and finding good deals at thrift stores

Summer Tritt, Reference & Information Services Librarian, IPFW

Where did you go to library school? Indiana University, Bloomington

What are you reading? What is at home by your bedside or comfy chair? Training your Dachshund by Amy Fernandez. (I have a very strong willed puppy)

Is there any professional literature that has recently caught your interest? “Improving the Student Experience – How Can the Library Help,” by Jean Sykes

What website or listserv have you found most useful recently? I read postings on H-Net Africa quite regularly

What music are you listening to? Mumford and Sons

What is the last movie you saw? Was it in a theater or on DVD? Up in the Air in the theater

Hobbies? Obsessions? Interests? traveling, digital photography, dachshunds, and cooking
