

IUSB Libraries Explore New Events for Students

JULIE FEIGHERY
Head of Research and Outreach Services
Indiana University South Bend

Photo taken by IU South Bend photographer, Michael Caterina

On Tuesday, October 10, a miniature therapy horse from Reins of Life visited students outside the IUSB Franklin D. Schurz Library. Ninety-six people petted the horse, and many more looked on. This is the second visit for the horse, as an earlier event was held last April. The event was very popular with students and will become an annual event.

The Schurz Library has also become a registered site for the national Silent Book Club. The program encourages members to meet to read silently together in a group setting. It is for readers who do not want the pressure of a book club but enjoy reading in the company of others. Our library has held two meetings this fall, and in the spring semester the club will meet from 11:00 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on January 24, February 7, February 21, March 6, March 20, April 10, and April 24.