

I Am The Girl In The Fire

The blazing flames of the fire
As you stare into the soul of it

The fingers of flame envelope you
Searching, sinking into your mind

Can you see me there, are you looking?
Can you feel my presence as
I slowly seep into your mind

The darkness around the fire
Becomes a blinding background of white

As the flames become your body
And your mind is set free

To move about in space
Freed to come join me
While your body is no longer needed

Step farther into the depths
Of my mind, seeking to free you

No don't turn from me
Don't turn away, I am peace

Do not give me up for this world
It holds only pain and sorrow
Please, I am lonely for a companion

It is true you may no longer seek
Those whom you know now

Until I come for them also
As I have done for you.

Molly Jo Haskin

