the pythia slept crushed between two rocks, dreamed of a woman walking through snow, her boy left under two trees and crying. Ecstatic, she cried, "my child is going to die soon." and the soldiers drinking wine in delphi, walking to war under olive trees wreathed in ethereal future, slowly emptying.