Acknowledgements

Humans have a tendency to celebrate achievements. Following the typical western convention, five and ten year anniversaries receive more attention than a six-year anniversary. This year we celebrate the fifth edition of the Undergraduate Research Journal of History, and this year's journal serves as an homage to all the past authors, editors, and faculty advisors that have dedicated their time and efforts toward making each of the preceding journals a success. This journal is built upon the foundation of the journals assembled in years past, as well as their legacy of high standards. We hope to do them justice.

The editorial staff would like to thank everyone that made this edition of the Undergraduate Research Journal of History possible. First, we must acknowledge the incredible faculty at the IU South Bend's History Department for their tireless support. The energy that they pour into their students is both inspiring and instructive, making us all want to help people achieve their best. These papers are a reflection of their commitment. We would also like to thank Dr. Tom Murphy for his guidance and assistance during the review and editing process. In addition, we would like to thank the IU South Bend Student Government Association for their financial support and steadfast camaraderie, without which the printing and publication of the journal would not have been possible. We would be remiss without mentioning the support of Dr. Jonathon Nashel and the IU South Bend Honors Club, and Dr. Timothy Willig and the IU South Bend History Club, for their lasting encouragement. Lastly, we would like to thank the authors whose work appears within this journal. We have enjoyed working with you all to make your great papers even better.

Personally, I would like to the thank all of my editors who tirelessly poured themselves into this journal. Their sweat and toil has made this a labor of pure joy. I would also like to thank the publication committee, who were always there when I had questions. Special thanks to Dr. Anne Magnan-Park, Dr. Maria Mendez, and Dr. Kyoko Takanashi; your compliments, encouragement, guidance, and support was both timely and unexpected, making it even more valuable to the success of the journal. After all, how often do one business and two English professors get acknowledged for their contribution to a history journal? I also feel the need to thank my advisors, official and unofficial: Dr. Lisa Zwicker, Dr. Timothy Willig, Dr. April Lidinsky, Dr. Tom Murphy, Dr. Hayley Froysland, Dr. Elizabeth Dunn, Dr. Jonathon Nashel, Dr. Craig Kinnear, Prof. Milan Andrejevich, and Jenni Piasecki. If you did not see the potential in me, I would not be where I am today. I am eternally grateful. Thank you for taking the time to mentor me in my academic journey.
