Studies in Digital Heritage - License agreement

v 1.41 – February 7, 2019

The following agreement must be signed by the corresponding author (hereafter the “Author”) and returned to Studies in Digital Heritage (SDH) before the publication of a manuscript (hereafter the “Work”), once accepted after the peer-review phase.

1. In consideration of publication in SDH of the work currently entitled:

________________________________________________________ [the Work], and authored by:

________________________________________________________ [author(s) name(s)],

Author(s) hereby grant(s) SDH a non-exclusive license to publish, reproduce, distribute, create derivative works from, and otherwise use the Work in any form or medium, whether now known or hereafter developed for the entire duration of any such right.

NOTE: Please be aware that many journals require exclusive rights to research that they publish. If you plan to publish research submitted to SDH in another journal at a later date, it is important that you are aware of the potential conflict of this prior non-exclusive license with another journal’s policy regarding exclusivity of rights.

2. The Author attests that all the facts contained in the Work are true and accurate.

3. The Author warrants and represents that the Work is original and does not infringe upon any copyright, proprietary, or personal right of any third party. If the Work contains any material that is owned or controlled by a third party (for instance, images used in the article), the Author warrants and represents that they or their co-author(s) have obtained permission for its use and that the material is clearly acknowledged within the text.

4. Ownership of the copyright shall remain with the author(s) listed above, subject to SDH’s use and the rights granted by the Creative Commons Attribution Non-Commercial License (CC BY-NC 4.0) assigned by the Author.
   a. Creative Commons licenses were developed to facilitate open access to, and free use of, original works of all types, and have been adopted by a growing group of authors and artists. Applying a CC license to an authored work provides legal protection to the author(s) while making the work freely and openly available.
   b. For the full legal terms of the CC BY-NC license, please visit: https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc/4.0/

5. By signing this agreement, the Author, also deemed the representative of any co-author(s), agrees to the terms specified above and vouches for the authenticity and originality of all research submitted in the Work.

6. In the event any legal dispute arises from this license, the jurisdiction shall be Indiana, USA.

Corresponding author name (print):

Corresponding author signature:

Date: